SUGGESTION BOX

SUGGESTION: "Suggest that tables at IT's mess be rearranged, using end and center space or even moving out a couple of tables if necessary, to allow ample walking space between tables. As it is, you have to squeeze, push and climb over people, spilling food as you go, to get to a seat, and frankly I'm tired of having to wash jam, gravy, etc., out of my hair."

ANSWER: The tables are arranged to give the maximum seating capacity, leaving enough space in the middle and at each end to avoid congestion. The best solution to the problem SB can think of would be the return to the E of I of about one thousand men from the station. GRY
